Thalir- Empowering the weak

Thalir means ' new shoot, bud'. We, at LEED try and help support women from broken families rebuild their life, to start all over again, just as a tree that is cut off starts to sprout and grow a new shoot!
When you look at yourselves and your families, you can definitely count your blessings. Can you use that gratitude to help a family in the slum where we support families?

These widows, single parents, sick, needy and suffering people have no roof or food for their children. Support, help, donate through www.lead.in

We train, teach and provide these sick, single mothers and widows with raw materials to help develop a skill so they can stand on their feet. We ask that you help them by either buying or selling the wire baskets which gives them income to sustain their families.

All it takes is a little will power and love from wonderful people like you who can raise the standard of living for these people. Do share this good deed with your family and friends. Also, contribute your time as a volunteer, resources or help them by sharing this post and creating awareness!

May you be blessed! Poverty is not an accident. It is man-made that can be removed by the actions of good human beings like you!
